

Traiana Harmony Launches FX Options Straight-Through-Processing

First users send vanilla and commonly traded exotic options give-ups to Prime Brokers over Harmony MessageCenter

February 1, 2006 —Traiana, Inc. announced the launch of its Foreign Exchange Options service over the Traiana Harmony Message Center with the first live trades over the network. Traiana's Harmony Message Center is a central hub that replaces the manual processing of give-ups and the use of multiple point-to-point interfaces with a single point of connection for all participants. Harmony has transformed the transmission of trade data, streamlining tri-party processes and replacing costly, time-consuming and error-prone data entry. The product has won the support of the industry, driving volumes of FX trading. The availability of FX Options straight-through processing over Harmony now makes these advantages available to hedge funds, Executing banks and Prime Brokers trading Foreign Exchange Options.

The release of FX Options support on Harmony enables a significant increase in flexible processing as well as the introduction of new standards for valuation and communication around options trading in the foreign exchange market. Traiana developed the option processing service in cooperation with a select set of Prime Brokers and Executing Banks currently on the Harmony network. The first release of the FX Options service supports vanilla options and commonly traded exotic options. The option product coverage will be expanded in the coming months.
